Request for Quote (RFQ) for Animal health consultant: Technical Experts to join the SEDRIC working group on antibiotic use for a study on Approaches to in-country monitoring of antibiotics in LMICs: a prioritisation exercise

1. RFQ Background & Objectives

Background: Monitoring the patterns of antibiotic use in humans, animals and the environment is critical to inform action on AMR at local, national, regional and international levels. Global systems for surveillance of antibiotic consumption (eg from import and sales data) are in existence for humans and animals but capture partial information. Point prevalence survey methods and reporting systems have been developed to capture antibiotic use in hospitals, and some other facilities, as well as on some farms. The lack of systematic collection of data on antibiotic use outside (typically) public sector hospitals and more accessible farms has created a blind spot on the types and scale of antibiotic use in many countries where this may form the majority of antibiotic use. With limited resources, it is critical that collection of data on antibiotics is strategically planned in order to provide the most useful information for action locally, nationally and internationally. Such strategy requires guidance on the most important places and frequency to collect data (from microbiological, ecological, agricultural and demographic expertise) together with input on how data on antibiotics can inform action in different clinical, regulatory and cross-sectoral spaces.

Within countries, AMR coordinating committees and those tasked with antibiotic optimisation in human and animal health require data on antibiotic consumption, use, storage and disposal to inform baselines and intervention priorities/strategies. The most useful and efficient composition of sources, nature and frequency of collection of such data is currently not laid out. SEDRIC has the convening ability to match technical expertise with the agendas of different actors concerned with antibiotic use patterns in low- and middle-income countries, to produce a roadmap to help with prioritisation of in-country data collection and reporting on antibiotics.

  Objectives
  This working group aims to support the unification of efforts towards a prioritisation roadmap for antibiotic monitoring within countries, with a one health approach.

  The working group objectives are to:
  1) Convene actors including national officials, international agencies and academia with relevant expertise and experience to share progress, challenges, tools and guidance for monitoring antibiotic use.
  2) Produce, collectively, a technical paper on the gaps and ways forward for antibiotic monitoring from a one health perspective.
  3) Provide, through a review of shared resources, a typology of existing tools and guidance to help navigate those intending to establish or expand antibiotic monitoring.

The Supplier’s areas of expertise include but are not limited to the following deliverables.

1. Co-leadership of the Antibiotic use working group in close collaboration with the human health co-lead and in consultation with SEDRIC appointed project lead Clare Chandler (fortnightly minuted meetings)
2. Map out actors from across disciplines and sectors who are active in the field of antibiotic use and AMR surveillance globally and invite representatives to join a collaborative stakeholder group (3m milestone)
3. Compile, with input from the stakeholder group, a review of existing resources and create a typology of existing tools for antibiotic use (3m milestone)
4. Convene a focused hybrid workshop to include members of the stakeholder group to reach consensus on core aspects of a roadmap towards antibiotic use that can inform meaningful data collection in country planning (6m milestone)
5. Draft, share (6m milestone), revise and publish (9m milestone) a technical paper that can support country planning and link to existing resources as well as gaps for supporting antibiotic monitoring action around the globe
6. Convene an online event to share the roadmap with a wider audience (10m milestone)

Wellcome may wish to engage the Supplier to provide additional technical, scientific and strategic advice to Wellcome (all on an ad-hoc basis). Specific details of each instance of such additional support will be set out and mutually agreed between the parties from time to time, which may include agreement via email.
